"They evidently think a Counters would injure their prospects with an unwashed mob of pletelans," remarked Helena Modician of Pair Action of

"So, coo members pay 1 cent 25,000 times, which equals $200."

"So, granting even that the assessments are honestly lowered in proportion to the increase in membership, the amount paid in at the end of each year by each individual member will not have decreased a jot, but will still remain $250.

"Now," continued Mr. Komer, "just imagine a person's paying $8 for initiation fees, $18 for dues and $250 for assessments. In all $401—in order to enjoy the privilege of being dowered to the extent of $225; Is it likely that an organization which can contemplate by plausible sophisms to get people to invest people to invest people to the form the form to the

"It will be asked: How is it that members have not yet felt the burden of these heavy assessments, atthough many must have married since the Order was chartered a month ago? Simply because no assessments have asy yet been levied. Why? Because the manipulators of this scheme are alraid to drive away good monthly-ques-paying members by the shock of the first assessment.

"As the Order need not pay any downy before the lapse of seventeen months from now it is not necessary to turn a cent into the endowment fund in all that thus, during which the projectors of the Order 12ay leisurely nil their pockets with the dues that are paid in monthly. the projectors of the Order 19ay leisurely fill their pockets with the dues that are paid in monthly.

"Let us see who they are that pay these fees and dues and possibly assessments, and, in the next place, who they are to whom this money is paid.

"Those who pay are invariably fillterate persons of the poorest classes. They are made to believe that they will receive $500 immediately on marriage.

"Let us see to whom the $500 raised by each assessment is paid. Section 3 of the Order's charter says:

"The President, Vice-President. Treasurer and Consel are the trustees of the corporation. They should be a seen as the trustees of the corporation and the part two accounts under their common near the trust Campany. The first account shall contain the credit of all members for initiation fees and dues. The second account shall contain the credit of all members for initiation fees and dues. The second account shall contain the credit of all members for initiation fees and dues. The second account shall contain under the title of Endowment Fund, all paid in sessessments. Both funds can be drawn against only on an order signed by all the trustees, and the corporation is to be paid his down?"

"The President, it is claimed by the Order, is Corponer M. J. B. Messemer; the Vice-President, Ernst V. Marschall; the Treasurer, Timothy A. Fay, and the Counsel, Charles K. Lexow. Of these officers Cornoer Messemer and Charles K. Lexow disclaim any connection with the Order and say that their names are used unauthorizedly. The remaining two, Marschall and Fay, are practically the only persons who manipulate the imaney; and their honesty is the only security members possess that the funds shall not be misapplied."

"I was a general agent of the Order and had power to engage sub-sagents. These submisappited."

"I was a general agent of the Order and had power to engage sub-agents. These sub-agents were to receive $3 for every new member they brought. I was to receive $5. That is to say, the initiation fees went entrely to the agents, which, in itself, goes good way towards showing that the whole offair cannot be legitimate.

"I set trustber about two hundred agents." offair cannot be legi'imate.

"I got together about two hundred agents. But instead of giving me the $5 which was due to me from every new member procured by these agents, the officers of the Order hananged it so that my commission as a rule went into their own pockets. For this I intend bringing a suit against the Order for $10,700 for breach of contract."

At the Order's Central Office.

The Order of the Old Colony has elegantly furnished offices fronting Union Square on the fourth floor of the Lincoin Building. An Evening World reporter called there, and upon stating his mission was cordially received by Vice-President & V. Marschail.

"Fears are entertained by some people, Mr. Marschail." said the reporter, "that the endowment fund of your Order is not properly secured, as the key to the fund lies in the hands or only two trustees. What ground is there for apprehension?"

in the hands or only two trustees. What ground is there for apprehension?"

"None whatever," replied Mr. Marschall.
"There is at present not a cent in the endowment fund, there having been no assessment made as yet."

"If no assessment has ever been made, how could you have paid the $500 dowry to a certain I. Wierszynski, as was advertised in the year York and Brooking Palish thretie. New York and Brooking Palish Gazette Courier, June 11 last? The article in ques-

"Oh, that was all a mistake on the part of the printers," replied Mr. Marschall. "We afterwards sent word to have the error cor-rected, but by some oversight the correction has not yet been published."

Why Messemer's Name Is Still Used.

"I have seen three such letters dated as late as Nov. 9 last, and Coroner Messemer resigned in May. How do you reconcile those dates?"

"Well, those letters must have been sent through a mistake. Anyway," continued Mr. Marschail. "I know perfectly well who those people are that are maligning our order. They are disappointed employees, who have teen discharged by us on account of inefficiency. Against one of them I hold affidavits charging him with blackmail and other crimes."

The inducements heid out to the poorer classes of people were exactly the same, and the result was that thousands of persons became members. Everything went along swimmingly until the Brat dowry came due. With it came the denouement.
